The Simple Life

Simpler Times - A golf community based on the joys and desires of the heart. It will be a place where serenity and peacefulness replace the stress and worry of a troubled world.

Ever since I overcame a sense of selfishness with a change of faith and heart, I have always felt my role in this life was to help make people feel better about themselves. I always try to make people around me feel as comfortable as possible. This attitude has probably hurt me in the competition part of golf. More often than not, my playing companions, whether they be professional opponents or pro-am players, have always played well, enjoyed themselves, and left the round feeling great about themselves. This philosophy of wanting to make others feel better about themselves pours over into my desire to share the gift of the heart in my golf course designs.

Anchored in the center of the most serene and peaceful community, the "Simpler Times" golf course will give even the most novice of golfers a sense of accomplishment; a freedom to "swing away" because the course is designed to create good luck.

Golfers playing the course at "Simpler Times" will have his or her momentum uninterrupted by a search for lost balls or the severity of a hole. Bunkers will be placed only for directional purposes and affect only the best of players. Mounds will be used to aid players, not hinder them, as the ball will pitch towards the fairway or green. Even slopes on the greens will move the ball towards the hole increasing the possibility of creating the thrill of a lifetime for a golfer; a hole-in-one. Five sets of tees will allow players of all abilities to enjoy the game of golf as it was intended. From the scratch golfer to the beginning youngster or elder statesman, the course at "Simpler Times" will be a course for everyone.

All of my golfing life I have designed courses in my mind and I have been blessed with a truly vivid imagination. My desire to share this with others - to create masterpieces and simpler ways of life, occupies most of my idle time.

Most people from all over the world are trying to escape from one thing or another. There is a constant search to find an easier, more peaceful way of going about life. Through the "Simpler Times" concept I hope to create a serene setting that promotes and encourages imaginative and creative thinking.

Our Creator already shaped the landscape for the "Simpler Times" community and golf course. My role is to place the golf course within a quaint village community complete with a town hall and chapel, peaceful homes overlooking streams and mountains, small shops, and antique cottages to house residents or visitors searching for the peace that is so much desired.

Golf Course Design Philosophy

DeWitt has always believed in making golf fun and exciting for all ages and skill levels. This has carried over into his golf course design philosophy.

“I believe a golf course should think for the player. A player should be able to use feel to picture shots with his or her imagination and not get caught up in guessing what the hole does or where the hole goes. I want golfers to stand on any one of my tees and get a rush of exhilaration in picturing where they are going to hit the ball.”

DeWitt believes golfers are drawn to courses with character and courses that allow the player to use his or her imagination as well as ability.

“They’re not always going to hit the shot they’re picturing, but I guarantee they’ll have fun imagining it. Every player wants the feeling of making that one great shot. I am a true believer that spectacular golf holes allow you to picture and ultimately hit spectacular golf shots.”

Through DeWitt Weaver Design we offer several Golf Course Design Solutions that will challenge golfers of all abilities and at the same time, provide endless possibilities for owners and developers alike.
