Montgomery Practitioners Gain Recognition at National Assembly

LAS VEGAS - Sept. 24 — Practitioners from Montgomery-based Alabama Artificial Limb & Orthopedic Service, Inc. (AAL&OS) were recognized for attending continuing education courses at the American Orthotic & Prosthetic Association (AOPA) 2007 National Assembly. Industry leaders conducted clinical and business management programs that informed attendees about the latest technology in the orthotic and prosthetic field.

More than 1,000 candidates attended continuing education programs and benefited from acquiring peer-level networking, sector recognition, specialized knowledge and advancing their professional standing. This recent educational experience will help the practitioners to continue to provide patients with the highest quality care available today.

Alabama Artificial Limb & Orthopedic Service, Inc. has an ongoing commitment to providing the highest quality in prosthetic, orthotic, pedorthic, and post-mastectomy services. In fact, the 50+ year-old company is in the process of implementing new initiatives aimed at earning center of excellence status in the O&P profession. Currently, each of the services offered within the areas of specialty at AAL&OS is provided by certified practitioners or certified fitters.

The American Orthotic and Prosthetic Association National Assembly is geared towards further educating patient care professionals and manufacturers on the latest developments in the prosthetic and orthotics field so they can provide the best and most affordable care possible to their patients.
